Thanks Go to Dr. Martin and the Trustees!

My Dear Alumnae:

It gives us greatest joy to say to all of you who were not able to come to Commencement that Dr. Martin and the Trustees have given the Alumnae the use of a large portion on the main floor of old Wesleyan for an Alumnae House. You will agree that this has been one of Wesleyan's outstanding needs for many years, and that Alumnae interest in the on-going of our Alma Mater will be greatly increased by having a place of our own where we can come and go at will.

For many months a committee has been deep in hopes and plans for the eventual restoration of the old building — not only our portion as a gathering place for the Alumnae, but also to give the building the historical spot it so richly deserves. Remember, no other building in the world can say that within its walls, the first diploma from a chartered college for women was granted.

The vision is great and the hopes unlimited. The accomplishment will take the efforts of all alumnae, young and old. From this restoration, we confidently expect great profit to Wesleyan College, especially in the field of publicity so long needed. The glories of Wesleyan are not known as they should be.

In the next issue of The Wesleyan Alumnae, full plans and purposes will be given. In the meantime, will not all of you give your best thought as to how we can truly serve our Alma Mater we love so well?

Always Sincerely Yours,
IRENE (SEWELL) HOBBY

THE 117th ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT and the ALUMNAE WEEKEND

The first Alumnae Day program is held in the new Porter Family Memorial Auditorium

The excitement of an old ceremony to be carried out in a new setting prevailed among the alumnae candle lighters mingling with the robed seniors on the Mount Vernon porch the morning of Alumnae Day. They soon formed the processional which wound its way into the new Porter Family Memorial Building auditorium, down the carpeted aisles and into the reserved seats.

Irene (Sewell) Hobby, National president of the alumnae, lead the induction ceremony of the seniors into the Association and asked them the following question: "Do you, members of the class of 1956, accept the responsibilities of alumnae of Wesleyan, pledging yourselves to keep always burning the love which was kindled here during your student days?" The seniors answered in unison: "We accept the responsibilities of alumnae-hood, and pledge ourselves, as did the alumnae of 1859, to 'contribute to the strength and prosperity of our Alma Mater'."

The seniors and alumnae candle lighters then marched up on the stage, and as the seniors knelt, the lighting of their candles symbolized the passing from one generation to the next of the traditions and heritage that is Wesleyan.

All Classes "Reunited"

All classes were invited to hold reunions this year to celebrate the use of Wesleyan's new auditorium, and although the auditorium was not filled, there was a good crowd back for Alumnae Weekend.

Mr. Forio Speaks

Mr. Edgar J. Forio, vice-president of The Coca-Cola Company of Atlanta, flew from Jacksonville, Fla., to Macon in order to be with the alumnae and speak to them on "The Role of Women in Today's World." He commented on the impressive ceremony he had just witnessed when the alumnae passed the light on to the seniors, typifying the translation from one generation to another. "It is part of life's responsibilities," he said, to pass on the things for which we stand—it is a yardstick of measure for our emotional maturity." He recalled the first baccalaureate address in 1840 by Wesleyan's first president and all the things Wesleyan stood for in those early pioneer days. He then described the ever-widening horizons before women today, but the traditional role is that of homemaker. He concluded by describing the steeple by which the child in a strange community found her way home. May the steeple still be the guiding influence in the role of women.

Mr. Furio was delightfully introduced by Cornelia (Adams) Heath, first vice-president in charge of Commencement affairs.

Resolution of Appreciation

The following resolution was read by Dessa (Hays) Asher, immediate past alumnae trustee, and unanimously adopted on Alumnae Day:

WHEREAS, James Hyde Porter and Georgie Collier Comer left funds to Wesleyan College for buildings to be placed on the Rivoli campus; and

WHEREAS, These funds have been combined; and

WHEREAS, This beautiful structure is the completion of the dreams of these benefactors; therefore

BE IT RESOLVED, That it is the sense of this meeting that the National Wesleyan Alumnae Association express thanks to God for these friends, and today honor the memory of James Hyde Porter and Georgie Collier Comer.

RESOLVED FURTHER, That a copy of this resolution be presented to the members of the respective families.

New Officers Elected

A new alumnae trustee and a new member-at-large of the Board of Managers were presented by Nonie (Acree) Quillian, chairman of the nominating committee.

Annabel Horn, member of the Golden Anniversary Class of 1906, was unanimously elected Alumnae Trustee for a three-year term, and was introduced by Octavia (Burden) Stewart, one of her classmates. Octavia enumerated her many past offices with the Alumnae Association and with the College: past alumnae trustee in 1934; past president of the Atlanta Alumnae Club; past national president of the Alumnae Association; former Dean of the Conservatory, and former assistant to Dr. Silas Johnson and Dr. Wm. F. Quillian. "In addition to this "Octavia (Burden) Stewart pointed out "Annabel is author of the most popular latin textbooks in the United States, her millionth book having been printed over a year ago."

Elizabeth (Loyall) Woods, A.B. 1920, past member of the Board of Managers and chairman of the Campus Beautiful Committee, was re-elected member of the Board of Managers for a three-year term.

Baccalaureate Service

The Baccalaureate Service for the first time was held Sunday afternoon at 4:00 p.m. in the new auditorium on the Rivoli campus. Dr. J. Wallace Hamilton, pastor of the Pasadena Community Church in St. Petersburg, Fla., preached.

Dr. Martin and Dr. C. O. Smith, Commencement Speaker, watch as the Procession enters New Porter Family Memorial Auditorium.

Lucia (Chappell) Domingos, Alumnae Trustee, wrote the following litany used during the service:

Litany of Gratitude

O God, for Thy manifold blessings which have come to us in this and other years,

Accept our glad thanksgiving.

For the enrichment of life and the uplifting of spirit,

Accept our glad thanksgiving.

For the love of Wesleyan which Thou didst implant in the hearts of Thy servants,

Accept our glad thanksgiving.

For the devotion of the Porter, the Collier and the Comer families,

Accept our glad thanksgiving.

For their yearning to express their devotion so as to bless the lives of all who gather here,

Accept our glad thanksgiving.

For the dedication of their wealth to the upbuilding of Thy kingdom,

Accept our glad thanksgiving.

For their generosity which brought into being this memorial building, a thing of usefulness and beauty,

Accept our glad thanksgiving.

For the trained minds that planned and the skilled hands that built,

Accept our glad thanksgiving.

For our privilege in meeting here in this commencement season,

Accept our glad thanksgiving.

For the blessings of our education and the inspiration of our faith,

Accept our glad thanksgiving, and establish among us forever the work of Thy hand. Amen.

Commencement Speaker

Dr. Cluster Smith, President of Oklahoma City University, addressed the graduating class Monday morning at the 9:30 a.m. exercises in the new Porter Family Memorial Building auditorium.

Dr. Smith spoke on "Building for Tomorrow." He pointed out that college buildings are important; faculties are important; but that even more important are the faculty-student relationships. "The buildings only indicate faith that you will carry on," he stated. "More important still is what you live for; what you work for. You for the past four years have been building the house you will live in. May no shoddy material have been used. Education becomes the potency of free and intelligent living."

We often speak of preserving our way of life, he stated, but each civilization should strive to be better. To build that better civilization we must know the people better: we must build better understanding between the people. Today engineering is now a whole generation ahead of civilization. Dr. Smith said that no building is important unless man grows too, and that it is going to be up to the women if our civilization is to be improved. He pointed to the seniors as he concluded: "To build it requires vision; may you continue to build on and on."

Honors and Awards

Five seniors were elected to membership in Phi Delta Phi, a liberal arts honor society, as follows: Emily Sawyer, summa cum laude; Carolyn Eaddy, summa cum laude; Carolyn Freund, magna cum laude; Joan Shapiro, magna cum laude; and Rosalie Voigt, magna cum laude.

Two seniors were elected to membership in Mu Alpha Omega, the honor society for the School of Fine Arts, as follows: Carolyn Sims, magna cum laude; and Jimmie Ruth Erskine, cum laude.

The other honor graduates are as follows: Magna cum Laude, Josephine Ann Little; Cum Laude, Arline Atkins, Elizabeth Peavy Comer, Jo Ann Cope'and, Sylvia Edwards, Henrienne Gaskins, Patricia Harper, Jere House, Mary Alice Jackson, Sylvia Kay Johnson, Sara Lee Lane, Linda Stoner.

New Alumnae Secretary Introduced On Alumnae Day

Florence (Trimble) Jones, A.B. 1920, was introduced on Alumnae Day, June 2, as the new Alumnae Secretary by Freda (Kaplan) Nadler who succeeded Florence as national president. Florence takes the reins in the Alumnae Office July 1, succeeding Malene (Lee) Morgan, '32.

Florence is well qualified to guide the alumnae program, having served as national president of the Alumnae Association from 1950-1952 and on the Board of Managers from 1952 to 1955. She is a true, loyal daughter of Wesleyan, and "the material in her folder in the alumnae biographical files reads like a continued story of Wesleyan."

Malene (Lee) Morgan Leaves Alumni Office

By Mae (Daley) Wayne

The Alumnae of Wesleyan deeply appreciate the loyal work that Malene (Lee) Morgan, A.B. 1932, has done during the past four years that she has been the Executive Secretary. She has done very valuable work and has made progressive contributions to the Association. All of us regret that she decided to retire July 1, and we shall miss her at Wesleyan.

Our best wishes go with her as she devotes more time to personal affairs and community service.

The Story Behind The Alumnae Awards

In the fall of 1949 at a meeting of the Wesleyan Alumnae officers, Rebecca (Caudill) Ayars, Urbana, Ill., our Alumnae Trustee at that time, made a suggestion that seemed to us an excellent one. We should have, she said, some way of honoring our alumnae who had been outstanding in their special fields as teachers, writers, artists, as musicians, as home makers, or in any other field of endeavor.

As an undergraduate college we do not customarily award honorary degrees as do universities to their distinguished alumni. We should have some way of recognizing unusual service to Wesleyan by the alumnae.

The matter was discussed fully and it was decided to present to the Alumnae Association through the Wesleyan Alumnae magazine the plan of alumnae awards . . . some for distinguished achievement and some for distinguished service to Wesleyan.

It was decided that we would not say how many should be presented each year but the feeling was that only a very few should be given each year provided, of course, there were in any one year, alumnae who merited these honors.

Any alumna may present a name together with her reasons for doing so to a committee through the Alumnae Office. A secret committee reads through all material submitted and makes recommendations to the Board of Managers, a group of (at that time) 9 alumnae officials who make the final decisions for the awards.

Officers of the Alumnae Association, members of the Board of Managers and persons officially connected with the college are not eligible for the awards while they hold these offices.

For Distinguished achievement which reflects honor upon Wesleyan College, I present:

VIRGINIA McJENKIN

Virginia McJenkin, Bachelor of Arts, cum laude, Wesleyan College, 1927.... Bachelor of Science in Library Science, Columbia University 1934; lecturer in library science at Emory University and the University of Maryland; past president of the Georgia Library Association and now a member of its Library Development Committee; immediate past chairman of the Joint Committee of the National Education Association and the American Library Association; present chairman of the American Library Association's City and County School Library Supervisors; Director of School Libraries of Fulton County since 1937; whose life has been guided by a vision of service to others; whose pioneer's dream of a library in every Fulton County School—elementary and secondary, negro and white—with an adequate book collection, housed in attractive library quarters and administered by a librarian with faculty rank, has become a reality because of her indomitable courage, unflagging determination and the contagion of her enthusiastic spirit; whose wise counsel and ability to plan broad programs has received national recognition through such appointments as the special American Library Association's Federal Relations Committee which works with President Eisenhower's Commission on Education; whose ideas in library architecture have been made available throughout the country by a filmstrip on Fulton County's libraries selected as a guide for school administrators, librarians and architects; whose devotion to every good cause has made her an active worker in her church and an enthusiastic and beloved member of the Atlanta Alumnae.

For Distinguished achievement which reflects honor upon Wesleyan College, I present:

SUE REGINA MAXWELL

Bachelor of Arts of Wesleyan College in the class of 1920; Master of Arts of Northwestern University, 1930; Doctor of Philosophy of Yale University, 1941. Professor of English at Bradley University since 1946. Keen scholar of English literature in all its varied forms; capable and inspiring teacher who has created in hundreds of university students a thirst for learning, a standard for evaluating, and a desire for establishing and attaining goals of their own in appreciation of literature and in creative writing; efficient administrator of the Department of Journalism at Bradley University; author of numerous articles in professional journals and of one book, South American Fiesta; planner and supervisor of Shakesperean plays which are a noteworthy annual event on the Bradley campus; entertaining and popular lecturer; member of and active participant in various organizations devoted to the advancement of teaching in the field of English; an interesting, witty, effective individual.

The Golden Anniversary of the Class of 1906

By Annabel Horn

Well, it can happen to you! But when we graduated in 1906 (not B.C.), our Golden Anniversary seemed as remote as the Millennium. On our Silver Anniversary we seemed to ourselves to be getting, not exactly decrepit, but rather old. But when we assembled for our Golden Anniversary, the cry after the first hug was, "My, how young you look, but I would have known you anywhere!" And as one gleefully remarked, "We came under our own steam." Many of us drove our own cars, others were lucky enough to have beautiful daughters to chauffeur them around, and others came with husbands and friends,—anyway we got there!

Every thing was perfect, even to a "cold day in June." And through it all went the hum of reminiscence. You see, we didn't have student government in our day, and the administration and faculty were "fair game," but wonderfully understanding. If there did come a lull in conversation, the babble would soon begin again with "Do you remember—" Remember what? Why the time we wore lavender cheesecloth caps and gowns on the stage Class Day, or when our class flag floated proudly from the old Tower for several days because the pigeons kept beating the man who tried to take it down, or when the laundry distribution system broke down and Mrs. Burks took her history class down to sort clothes instead of English kings, with the suggestion that nothing be mentioned in the college paper—but it appeared all the same as a wonderful Greek tragedy with apologies to Euripides, or when we were photographed in "turtlenecked sweaters" after a basketball game and appeared in mannish garb on the front page of the Macon Telegraph, or when one of the girls had a date, beg pardon, an engagement with a young man who owned or borrowed a newfangled contraption, an automobile, and the girl, all dressed up in duster, veil, and other accessories of the well-dressed autoist, was allowed to ride at ten miles an hour up-and-down College Street, while the rest of us hung out of the windows and waved anything handy and how "Wesleyan Female College" was on our diplomas—and on and on through the afternoon and into the night.

But we also spoke lovingly and rever-

Class of 1906 at Golden Anniversary Luncheon

ently of our "professors," who gave us an appreciation for the true and the beautiful in life, and thus molded our lives into the patterns that have made us the women of the Golden Anniversary Class.

All of us have led busy lives, all have varied interests, home, church, community life, public service, teaching, writing, and what-have-you, but ever conscious of the invisible influence of our Alma Mater.

The Golden Anniversary Class table in the beautiful Anderson Dining Room took our breath away, almost. Somehow Octavia Burden, our class president, had managed to get corsages of lavender sweet peas, our class flower. The delicious food was consumed amid more chatter, this time with your nearest neighbor; the photographers insisted on taking pictures that never did us justice; we sat in the seats of honor on the stage in the new Porter Chapel.

Then, in the beautiful Burden room we had our first formal gathering after dinner—did I say formal, I should have said scheduled. Again we reminisced, and Jennie Riley, our class musician, played the old tunes. Somehow, we were not sure of the words of our class song, but we did remember most of the Class Day chant, yum, yum, fiddle diddle bum, hump stump, flumadiddle, rigdum jig-dum, bodie modie Kiro, dilco, diro. One of the amusements of the evening was looking over the pictures in our annual, and comparing the pictures of fifty years ago with our present day appearance—changed, yes, but the eyes somehow were the same. There was silence, too, as we thought of the ones who had passed on, a surprisingly small number, and of the ones who were held at home by weddings, graduations, and other pressing affairs. With deep regret we learned that one of our most enthusiastic members, Louise Monning, had been injured in an accident on the way to the reunion, but she wrote a message from her hospital bed and chose Eliza Pope Hill to take over her Morning Watch Program for Alumnae Day.

Most of the alumnae staying on the campus were present at this meeting next morning despite the early hour. In this intimate get-to-gether, the leadership in church and community was especially evident as various ones told of their days at home.

Again we sat in the seats of honor for the Alumnae Day Program in the Chapel and in the Dining Hall. After lunch there was a general exodus.

The consensus of opinion was: that Octavia Burden, Martha Lewis and their committees had done a perfect job; that the time was all too short for all the talking we wanted to do; that our deep faith and love for our Alma Mater could never be dimmed by the passage of time; that we would immediately begin planning for our 75th anniversary.

Our thanks to President and Mrs. Martin, to Malene Morgan, and to all the others who helped to give us happy memories to add to our collection of memories.

Presentation of Annabel Horn For Alumnae Trustee

By Octavia (Burden) Stewart

It is a privilege to be allowed to present a star member of the Class of 1906. For us who are "reuning" this year, I wish to express our sincere appreciation of the outstanding merits of Annabel Horn. Although she is a Horn, she makes no noise so far as "tooting her own horn" is concerned, so we, her admiring classmates, must toot it for her.

She must be called a Horn of Plenty, for her many accomplishments are so numerous and so fruitful that as from the traditional horn of plenty they are richly overflowing. As a schoolgirl of '06, she gave promise of an unusual future since Greek and Latin were her hobby. She could quote every word Prof. Foster, her Latin instructor, said. Beneath her picture in our annual, The Zig-Zag, I find this bit of verse:

Many a girl returns from school
A Latin, Green, and Hebrew fool;
In art and Knowledge still a block,

Though deeply skilled in his, haec, hoc.
This is certainly not true of Annabel, for her love of the classics matured into a rich and regarding profession. For twenty years she taught Latin in

Preparatory Department To Offer Lessons In Music And Art

Lessons in Music and Art will be offered by Wesleyan College's Preparatory Department to school children and special adult students again this year, Dean Sigurd Jorgensen, of the School of Fine Arts, announced recently.

The lessons will be given in the late afternoon at the old downtown Conservatory building on College Street. Wesleyan's regular Music and Art faculties will provide the instruction.

For further information, write or call Dean Jorgensen. Registration will be September 14 and 15 at the Conservatory Building.

the Atlanta High School. However, her real work was the writing of Latin textbooks. It is no surprise to know that her Latin books are "best sellers" in their field. In 1953 she was honored by her publishers, Scott, Foresman & Co., with a luncheon at the Lake Shore Club of Chicago celebrating the one-millionth copy of her book. It is no ordinary book: it is illustrated with carefully chosen and beautifully colored pictures to stimulate the interest in and enrich the experience of learning Latin. She has placed several of these outstanding books in our Wesleyan library.

Annabel has through the years served Wesleyan well. She was Alumnae Trustee 1934-37, President of the Alumnae Association 1937-40, and later for seven years, Dean of the School of Fine Arts. She gave generously of her time and talents during these seven years rendering also invaluable assistance to Dr. Silas Johnson on the Rivoli Campus.

Like the Kings of old, her many accomplishments and achievements have been chronicled: In 1953 she received two citations from her Alma Mater, one for Distinguished Service Rendered Wesleyan, the other for Distinguished Achievement Reflecting Credit on Wesleyan. Now she is being called once again to serve a second term as Alumnae Trustee. Let me say parenthetically that she has a lovely mountain home, "Butternut," near Blairsville, Ga., and I think it would be an excellent plan for our class to hold its next reunion there. We are proud to present you, Annabel, and count it a privilege that you are one of '06. Amamus te, Anna Bella cara.

An appeal for the Loyalty Fund for Scholarships has gone to 7500 alumnae during 1955-1956. Approximately 697 answered with gifts large and small. Can't you see how the 6,803 who have not responded could really put Wesleyan on the map if they started those checks rolling in the right direction? If all of us give something—$2.00 - $5.00 - $10.00 - or more, we can be proud to take our place with other colleges our size in alumnae giving.

No gift too small—No gift too large

To the following alumnae who have contributed since April 1 to the time this goes to press—we say Thanks!

Silver Anniversary Class of 1931

The Class of 1931 returned for the Silver Reunion with some silver in the hair, a few extra pounds on the hips, but with mutual squeals of joyful greeting, "You look just like you did when we were in school." For you alumnae who missed it, don't miss the next one. It is better for rejuvenation than a visit to the Springs or the Beauty Shop. Everyone and everything made you think that you had been out of college just a few years, not 25. Elizabeth Moate Baxter was answering the telephone as usual on 2nd floor. Junior-Senior Hall and Dr. Quillian blessed the food in the dining hall. The changes noticed in the college were changes for the better.

Elsewhere in this issue will be accounts of the program, meetings, business, etc. However, for the benefit of the non-attenders the college meals were delicious—butterfly shrimp, almond chicken, and a wonderful indescribable dessert served with a rich sauce at the table. Dr. Martin gave a most interesting business report. Then he and his lovely wife had open house for the alumnae and friends.

Bessie Lester Hart and Marmee Hatcher entertained the Class of '31 for tea at Bessie's lovely home. The thirty-ones present were as follows: Tibber Anderson Belcher, Anderson S. C.; Kathleen Bailey Burts, Atlanta; Paula Belcher Murray, Arlington, Va.; Lottie Bragg Clarn, Perry; Julia Bryant Evans, Bartow; Helen Cahil Huey, Atlanta; Martha Cooper, Perry; Dot Dannerberg Greenwald, Macon; Mildred Goodrum Heyward, Macon; Jo Lott Webb, Tucson, Ariz.; Daisey Mansfield Lewis, Statesville, N. C.; Elizabeth Moate Baxter, Atlanta; Martha Pate Allen, Winter Haven, Fla.; Janie Sims Young, Wrens; Grace Teasley Sandlin, Anderson, S. C.; Annette White King, Jacksonville, Fla. Safford Harris missed the tea for a Pittsburgh plane for a library conference. At the tea Kay Bailey Burts made pictures with a new camera.

Friday night the reunioners met for a session amid trunks and crates in the second floor parlor. They repeated old faculty jokes and received old conquests. Then each in turn brought the others up to date. Those reporting on children were as follows: Helen Cahil Huey, a girl 14 and a boy 8; Martha Pate Allen, a boy 12 and a girl 10 (currently appearing in a piano recital with a black eye); Grace Teasley Sandlin, two girls, 9 and 7; Paula Belcher Murray, a girl 19 at William and Mary and a boy 10; Annette White King, three boys, one at W. & L.; Tibber Anderson Belcher, a son at Annapolis, a girl 13, a boy 11, and a girl 4; Jo Lott Webb, 3 boys 17, 13, and 10. Marmee Hatcher told of her three trips abroad. Safford Harris, only one present with an extra degree (M.A. in Biology) told of her work at Georgia Tech. Elizabeth Moate Baxter described her new home. Daisy Mansfield Lewis had recently done the Charleston on TV.

The Class of '31 returned with Wesleyan spirit and Wesleyan love but all in all the Class of '31 brought little silver for a Silver Reunion. If you have not paid your Loyalty Fund for 1956 send it in now. It is not too late. Send it in with news of yourself and of your family for the Alumnae news.

Dr. Thoburn Speaks At Wesleyan

Dr. Isabella Thoburn, executive secretary of the U. S. Educational Foundation in India since 1954, and former professor of psychology at Wesleyan, visited the campus on May 7 and spoke to the students of her work at a Convocation program.

Dr. Thoburn stated she first wanted to report to the students on their World Service money raised for India and which she had had the privilege of handling. She said two-thirds of the money went to the Isabella Thoburn College for Scholarships for girls and one-third to Lal Bagh secondary school to be used for one of their promising seniors who should have a chance for further education.

Next she spoke of Wesleyan College in India . . . of running into Pat (Wing) Srinivas, '50, and Chung-ling (Soong) Sun, '13. She entertained the students and faculty with anecdotes about orienting Indian students for study at American colleges. She planned to leave the United States for India on June 1.

Macon Club Elects New Officers

New officers for 1956-1958 were elected at a brief call meeting of the Macon Wesleyan Alumnae Club immediately following the annual meeting of the National Alumnae Association on June 2 in the Porter Family Memorial auditorium. Frances (Cater) Snow, president for the past two years, presided.

Malene (Lee) Morgan, chairman of the nominating committee, read the following slate of officers: Katherine (Jordan) Stewart, president; Emma (Drew) Clay, first vice-president; Geraldine Jackson, second vice-president; Elizabeth (Conner) Tucker, third vice-president... Nancy (Whitaker) Young, secretary and publicity; Kathie (Thomasson) Mayfield, treasurer; Group II, Chairman, Ruth (Benton) Persons; co-chairman, Alice (Domingos) Evans; Group III, chairman, Dorothy (Redwine) Black; co-chairman, Edna (Percy) Allman; Group IV, chairman, Nell (Richards) Sams; co-chairman, Betty (Burch) Ridley; Group V, chairman, Sadye Claire (Barnes) Ray; co-chairman, Frances (Barnes) Grant; Group VI, chairman, Edwina (Hall) Beall.

The slate of officers was unanimously elected and Frances (Cater) Snow, out-going president, was thanked for an outstanding job. The new president was not present due to illness.

Columbus Alumnae Hold Annual Luncheon

by Courtney (Knight) Gaines

The social hall of St. Paul Methodist Church was the scene on April 21 of the annual luncheon of the Wesleyan Alumnae Club.

Wilda (Maddox) Wilson, '40, out-going president, announced the following officers for coming year: president Eva Lowe (Baisden) Skipworth, '50; vice-president, Ida Few (Bigbee) Mixon, '51; secretary, Carol (Simmons) Revell, '37; treasurer, Louise (Dorsey) Waldron, '22; publicity, Courtney (Knight) Gaines, '51.

Virginia (Scott) Estes, '37, one of the national vice-presidents and out-going vice-president of the local club, presented attractive pamphlets explaining Wesleyan's recently revised curriculum in home economics and giving details concerning the remodeling of the department at the college.

Miss Ann McGregor, home economist from Amana, Iowa, gave Wesleyannes some hints about homemaking of the future, and explained a display of modern home appliances.

Special guests for the occasion were several officers from the Future Homemakers Clubs of local high schools and Jeanette (Wallace) Oliphant, Wesleyan field representative.

Washington, D. C. Alumnae Club

The Washington, D. C. Wesleyan Alumnae Club ended its 1956 year with a tea at the home of Marian (Cook) Mickelwait, '23, on June 16. A short business session was held, presided over by Eloise (Walker) English, M.B. '12, outgoing president. New officers were elected to serve for a two-year period and are as follows: President, Mary K. (Read) Brannen, A.B. '25; Vice-President, Mary (Burdell) Arapian, '40; Secretary, Isabella Harris, A.B. '26; Treasurer, Ouida (Johnson) Ward, A.B. '24. General Mickelwait, husband of the hostess, entertained the group with some lovely colored slides taken in Europe a year ago when he and Marian were on a tour over there.

This fine group has enjoyed a very successful two years and are looking forward to the future with much enthusiasm.

New Club Started In Del.-Penn. Area

Eight Wesleyannes from Wilmington, Del., and surrounding towns in Pennsylvania met in April for a "gab-session" half way between Wilmington and Philadelphia. These girls had such a glorious time they are planning to meet again in July, at which time they plan to organize into an Alumnae Club.

South Carolina Senior Wins Alumnae Endowed Scholarship

Miss Jan Bolt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bolt, Rt. #3, Anderson, S. C., was awarded the third full tuition, Alumnae Endowed Scholarship for Leadership given by the National Wesleyan Alumnae Association for the 1956-57 school year.

Miss Bolt was also offered a $300.00 scholarship to Wesleyan as a result of the competitive examinations on Dormitory Day, however, she chose the alumnae scholarship. But winning honors is nothing new to Jan Bolt, whose student newspaper, "Hannasgals," of which she is editor, placed in the top five in its class in the entire state. She also received the Wilton E. Hall Journalism Award.

The outstanding work done by Jan at Hanna High; her high scholastic rating throughout school; and the honors won and work done in the field of extra-curricular activities were the primary considerations in awarding the Alumnae scholarship.

This is the third award made from an endowed fund set up by the Wesleyan Alumnae Association in 1944. An announcement will be made when another scholarship is available.
